DESIGN MEETS INDUSTRY

ES Aunque el diseño industrial se enfoca en la funcionalidad y la ergonomía, el componente artístico presente en el bocetaje juega un papel crucial. A través de trazos simples pero cargados de expresividad, el diseñador va jugando con formas, proporciones y detalles para encontrar el equilibrio entre lo estético y lo funcional. Los bocetos ponen al diseñador ante el desafío de descubrir nuevas direcciones estéticas con la necesidad de conservar la viabilidad técnica del diseño.

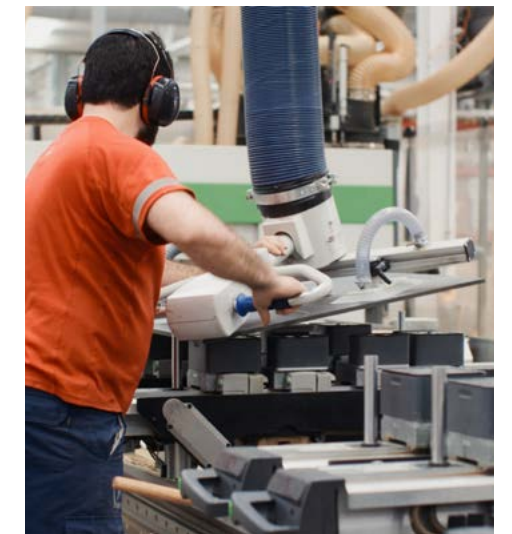

EN Although industrial design focuses on functionality and ergonomics, the artistic component present in sketching plays a crucial role. Through simple yet expressive strokes, the designer explores shapes, proportions, and details to find a balance between aesthetics and functionality. Sketches challenge the designer to discover new aesthetic directions while maintaining the technical feasibility of the design.

ES La experiencia compartida entre el diseñador y la industria que materializa sus diseños es fundamental en el proceso de co-creación. El diseñador, con su visión y creatividad, establece los pilares del proyecto, transmitiendo sus necesidades y objetivos. En paralelo, la industria entra en escena aportando su experiencia técnica y conocimientos productivos.

Esta sinergia permite no solo materializar la visión del diseñador, sino también optimizarla, gracias a la retro-alimentación técnica y la comprensión de los límites y posibilidades industriales.

Pillars of Mediterranean design

Undeniably Mediterranean in origin, Dorik finds its inspiration in the grandeur of the classical columns of ancient Greek Doric architecture. Sculpted in harmonious proportions to feature intricate details and refined textures, Dorik tables bring a timeless elegance to any room. Manufactured using the rotational moulding technique, the resulting pieces are able to stand on a single leg, which allows them to be expanded in the use of several columns in order to extend their use, for example to form distinguished meeting tables.
